

Warrior Writers: Poetry and Prose of the First World War

FREE WORKSHOP

Wednesday, May 31, 2017, 6:30 pm
Historical Society of Pennsylvania

The experience of war is unique to those that lived through it, whether the individual served in uniform or remained on the home-front. One hundred years ago, the First World War represented a departure from previous conflicts; the scale of carnage led many to earnestly believe it to be “the war to end all wars.”

To commemorate the 100th anniversary of the U.S. entry into the war, join HSP and Warrior Writers for a workshop as local veterans share the words of their counterparts in “The Great War,” as well as their own experiences.

Attendees will then be divided into small groups, and will have a safe, comfortable environment to share reactions and thoughts in relation to what was read and said. They’ll be encouraged to express themselves in various forms, such as poetry, spoken word, limericks, haikus, or drawing.

- Register today for this free workshop at hsp.org/calendar
- Original documents will be on display and light refreshments will be served.

WARRIORWriters

This program is presented in partnership with Warrior Writers.

This program is part of World War I and America, a two-year national initiative of The Library of America presented in partnership with The Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History, the National World War I Museum and Memorial, and other organizations, with generous support from The National Endowment for the Humanities.