

Warrior Writers supports Black Lives Matter. We stand against racism and white supremacy in all forms. We share in the grieving and rage for the murder of George Floyd in Minneapolis and too many Black lives that were taken before his. But a statement is only a statement. Many of us have been in the streets, doing jail support, posting content by Black folks, making calls, signing petitions, having hard conversations with family members, trying to survive and more. What we do as an organization in our daily work values and highlights Black voices (of veterans), and we will continue to do this. We did not want to distract from voices that deserve to be heard until we could add value and specific opportunities for action. Warrior Writers community, we encourage you to take action, and appreciate the various ways you have already been doing so.
